A Tribute to an SLTU Stalwart

Theresa Surage - Plummer

Mrs. Surage attended the Dame School formed for pre-schoolers from ages 5-7. From the age of seven (7), she walked everyday from Belle Vue to the Vieux Fort RC Girls Infant and Primary Schools.

In 1954, Mrs. Surage received a scholarship after coming first on the island. The examination was called "Scholarship Exams" at the time. She then migrated to Castries where she attended the St. Joseph's Convent from January 1955 to December 1959. Throughout Secondary School, students were given cumulative assessments which went towards their end-of-year grade. As one of the top students at the St. Joseph's Convent, Mrs. Plummer received many awards for her academic excellence.

On June 01, 1960, at the age of 20, Mrs. Surage was appointed to the post of PA 2 Teacher where she was paid a salary of $60 monthly. She was assigned to the Ave Maria Girls' School where she taught the Common Entrance class for four (4) years and received 100% pass in the in the first two years and 95-100% passes thereafter. She was very instrumental in publishing the first ever school magazine which highlighted a collection of children's poems and other writings. In 1965, Mrs. Plummer enrolled at the Teachers' Training College and was among the first batch of students in San Souci.

In 1968 she migrated to Bequia with her husband. There she served as assistant principal at the Bequia Anglican School for two years.

Theresa Surage - Plummer

She was appointed deputy principal at the time and had a class. During this time, her enthusiasm for change, lead her to become part of the Bequia Teachers’ Union. Upon returning home from Bequia, she reported to the RC Boys’ Primary School as the deputy principal. Mrs. Plummer was the first and only female teacher at the school during that time. One of her landmarks achieved at the RC Boys’ Primary School, was the introduction of “streaming” or homogeneous classification, a concept accepted with much trepidation by the authorities.

In 1975, she left the RC Boys School and went to the Vide Bouteille Projects School for five (5) years. The Project school was for the students who missed the Common Entrance Examination. In 1979, she left The Projects and went to teach at the Carmen Renee Memorial School for six years.

In 1985 she was awarded a Government Scholarship from the Government of Guyana. There she pursued a Bachelor’s Degree in Educational Administration at the University of Guyana. Upon her return from university, Mrs. Plummer reported to the Carmen Renee Memorial School, where she served as acting principal and remained there until 1997. In 1998, she was transferred to the Corinth Secondary School as a teacher of Language and Literature. She taught there until her retirement in 2000. Mrs. Plummer taught for forty (40) years.

Teachers’ Union Involvement:

Mrs. Plummer believes that the union was too timid during the time of her early involvement. Members were not allowed to speak to much on issues which affected them and attacked their superiors but there were a few who were highly critical and fearless. This is why the one-paged document called “The Act” was burnt publicly at a march held around the Columbus Square to demonstrate against such an insult. The document did not take into consideration conditions of work, distance traveled, salaries, additional qualifications and experience. Teachers were still under the PTA system.

She recalls that the Teachers’ Union became very active during 1975-1979. The union wanted better conditions for teachers. It wanted to equate teachers’ salaries with that of the Civil Service. This was difficult because the gap was so wide. During her time as General Secretary from the periods 1977-1978 and 1978-1979, there were many sick outs. Figure three was the strategy used as a base. Teachers would stay two days out and call a meeting on the third day. Then every third teacher would stay home. That plan became effective within a weekend of planning and went through the entire week. A meeting was then held after the first week of sick out. Then it intensified where two teachers stayed home for two days and one reported. The Ministry of Education then had parents to report to the schools. The Union visited schools and met parents on a one-one basis. Parents were told that they were doing a job which was not theirs and was not qualified to do. The Caribbean Union of Teachers (CUT) was prepared to have a sickout in solidarity with SLTU if government did not meet its requests. Off course, someone would alert them of the plan. The 1978 sick out led to the 1979 strike where teachers were out for fifty two (52) days. That year, Government approved its highest salary increase; 75% for the lowest grade, 60 % for the middle grade and 50% for the highest grade.

Mrs. Surage- Plummer was and continues to be a strong supporter of the union and all its activities. She was also the shop steward for the Carmen Renee Memorial School.
